Welcome to Buggy's

...home of Old Town Alexandria's original sports bar and favorite pizza. Owners Bryan (Bugsy) and Lindy Watson take great pride in having been part of the Old Town restaurant scene at this location since 1983.

The sports bar was a natural choice for Bryan, a 17-year veteran of the National Hockey League. He began his career in 1962 as a right defenseman for the Montreal Canadiens and found his way to the Washington Capitals in 1976, retiring in 1979. Before coming to Washington, Bryan spent 5 1/2 seasons with the Pittsburgh Penguins and 5 seasons with the Detroit Red Wings. Buggy was a fierce competitor on the ice and led the league in penalty minutes for several years. Also a renowned prankster, Watson got the nickname "Bugsy" from teammates Gordie Howe and Andy Bathgate in 1966 during the famous semi final Stanley Cup series when he drove both the opposition and his own teammates crazy...for very different reasons!

A dedicated team player, Bryan brings this same attitude to his restaurant. At Buggy's, he strongly believes that a dedicated staff working productively and happily is the only way to deliver the best restaurant experience to his customers. In addition, Bryan and Lindy are especially proud of their pledge to use only the highest quality, freshest ingredients in all their dishes. Each meal is prepared on premises daily. This commitment to excellence insures they serve awesome appetizers, delicious pizzas, specialty sandwiches and salads!

We hope you have a great time, a delicious meal and lots of fun browsing through our prized collection of sports memorabilia on the walls upstairs.
